THE FRENCH MAILS.

30 DAYS LATER from EUROPE.

The 'Saintonge' entered the port yesterday morning at daybreak, bringing a large number of passengers, full cargo, good news about wool, and the following important items from Europe.

ENGLAND.

Consols at latest dates, (27th ult.) 93¾.

Bank of England interest 4 p. ☡

The people in England are at present very much occupied with the Seizure of Roberts question, which many think will result in the dismemberment of the British Kingdom. The King of Denmark states that he will decree the time thrown, and will not permit the Policy of Austria and Prussia to be carried out. France displays no anxiety therefore.

The total amount of the offers for the Brazilian loan amounted to £7, 000,000.

UNITED STATES.

The latest dates we have from the States are up to the 17th October.

General Lee had out-flanked General Meade, the Northern general, and compelled him to retire on Fairfax, whither Lee was pursued by the Confederates. A great battle is imminent. Rosencrans' position is said to be very critical. Peace, London has called for 300,000 volunteers.

In Tennessee the Confederates bombarded Chattanooga, where Rosencranz is at present. General Burnside had hardly time to get into the town with the right wing. A battle was hourly expected.

Kansas it was rumoured that the North-rners were beaten, with a loss of 1500 men. Major General Brunt was taken prisoner.

The siege of Charleston still continues The Northerners were preparing to attack it on the 15th October.

President Lincoln had appointed a day in day in November for thanksgiving and prayer. Gold had risen in New York to 50 per cent. premium.

FRANCE.

The Minister Billaut is dead: he died rather suddenly, and his loss is greatly felt in the Cabinet.

On the 5th of November the Chambers were to be opened. Several very important questions would be brought before the house; amongst others, the Mexican question, the affairs of Poland relations with the East, state of South America.

SPAIN.

The elections in Spain are over, the papers state that they resulted as follows:—8 progressistas, 30 doubtful, and 282 in favor of Government.

Moreno, the Finance Minister had resigned, but was replaced by Isaz-ola.

The French Empress after her visit to Seville and other parts of Andalusia, embarked at Cadiz on the 15th, and arrived at Valencia on the 17th. The Count Altamira and the Marquez Villafranca, Governor of Spain, waited on the Empress to welcome her in the name of the Spanish Queen. The Empress has been feted all through Spain. On the 21st in company with Queen Isabel, she witnessed a bull fight.

On the 24th, the Empress took leave of the Queen, and embarked for Marseilles.

The rich banker Don José Salamanca, the ex-Consul Marquis of Salamanca, and the Spanish Minister, Marquis of Cor-Sirtcuse.

ITALY

The Italian Parliament was to meet at Turin on the 15th of November. The King will go on the 1st to Naples.

The King of Greece embarked on the 23d from Toulon. He goes to take possession of his throne. The Parliament of the Ionian Islands, after having voted the Annexation Bill, took up the question as to whether or not the Ionian Islands should assume the Grecian debts, or, if so, in what proportion. The whole amount of the debt is 15 millions sterling.

GERMANY

The elections resulted in a great triumph for the Liberal party. The King still declares himself in favour of his Ministers, and a dissolution is expected. The King of the Pelasians advised concessions to be made, but the Prussian King sternly refused.

The Ministers of the German Confederation, who adhere to the Austrian policy of Federal Reform, were assembling at Gmundtzen on the 16th.

The Emperor of Austria was about to go to Pesth.

Berlin, Oct. 14.—The refusal to pay taxes is becoming more common in Prussia. M. de Bernuth, a wealthy mine-owner in Westphalia, has lately allowed his goods to be seized by the tax-gatherer, and they are to be sold by auction. It is also said that Wulkenzen, member of the Chamber of Deputies, has refused other heads of the Liberal party, have likewise refused to pay their taxes.

SANTO DOMINGO.

The latest news from this island was truly disastrous. The insurgents had marched on the capital, and obliged Santa Anna to retire to an adjoining wood. They then entered the city, and committed all sorts of barbarities. Colonel Don Domingo Palenco was named chief of the indigenous government. General Florentin was appointed Minister of Marine, and it was thought would catch him. The whole island is in a frightful state of anarchy. By the last mails, the Haytien Consul, report to the effect that the Spaniards were driven out of the island, is contradicted.

DENMARK

Copenhagen, October 19.—Prince Oscar of Sweden has returned to Valmo, having been present at the festivities at Glucksburg on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the birth of the King of Denmark. His Highness was accompanied by Count Hamilton, King, who has arrived here on the 16th to preside over a Council of Ministers, has returned to Glucksburg.

THE BANK RULES

Yesterday, we were rather surprised on receiving a very sarcastic communication from a merchant of this city, concerning our remarks on the rules of the Commercial Bank. As the inquiry question refers exclusively upon a private bank in this city, we have refused to publish it, at the same time we promised our correspondent that, without mentioning names, we would call attention to the matter.

Mr.——, in his letter, says—"In your paper of the 24th inst., I read an article on the abuse of which you complain, of having to draw all the deposits you have in the Provincial Bank to obtain a small amount. I assure you, that this is not only too true, but, at the same time, I must say that I do not see that the very same abuse exists at ——(a private bank in this city), or the very same has happened to myself. And if this is culpable in an antiquated institution, such as the Casa de Moneda, how much more unjustifiable is it in a private bank?"

The private banks in the city command our sympathy, therefore, we refine "point-blank" to publish the name of that bank in which our correspondent refers. Still, we feel in duty bound, to call the attention of the Commercial Bank to the fact that such an extraordinary custom be at once abolished. Bank directors and managers should do all in their power to encourage business, and not to obstruct it. They are supported by the public, and should therefore, be subservient to the wishes of the public. In fact, we cannot think that any private bank would attempt to force such antiquated regulations upon our commercial body. Any one can, by holding one thousand paper dollars to his credit in a bank, has surely a right to draw for two hundred, and yet this is the difficulty. According to the old bank rules, a depositor must draw the full amount of his deposit, otherwise he will get none. That this rule exists, both in old, and modern institutions, such as the Casa de Moneda, we can readily account for, but that in private banks, doing business on the most approved European system, these inconveniences could be permitted, we really can hardly credit it.

THE GOLDEN EAGLE.

We regret to say that, according to the statement of the mate of this unfortunate vessel, a certain English captain is charged with wilfully refusing any assistance to the distressed vessel. The captain of the Golden Eagle he applied to the captain in question for assistance, but he only met with a point blank refusal, although it is asserted that it the Golden Eagle had received any assistance at that time the probabilities are that the vessel would have been got off. The mate likewise states that it was clearly the wish of this hard-hearted captain to see her a wreck, as it was coming on to blow, and although he arrived here two days before the captain of the Golden Eagle, he never made the affair known except to the wreckers.

In publishing these facts we comply with a rather unpleasant duty, as we are unwilling to believe that any English captain would risk the lives of his fellow countrymen by such dastardly conduct. We have been furnished with the name of the captain in question, but refrain from publishing it until we certain the facts with greater certainty Although we attach every faith to the statement of the mate, still there may have been circumstances which could acquite the captain from censure; he may have been afraid to run such a near the shore for his own vessel should most he fate of the unfortunate Golden eagle. There are many reasons which in an ordinary court would clear the captain of the present charge against him. We therefore cannot publicly accuse this man until we hear his statement; we hope that he himself will favour us with whatever facts he can afford us.

We feel in duty bound to thank the British Consul for the very prompt manner in which he dispatched gun-boats and launches to the assistance of the wreck. The English Consul who displays such anxiety to render assistance to a British vessel in distress deserves the praise of his fellow countrymen. We are happy here to afford praise where it is really deserved, but, censure when the conduct of our public men demands it. The British Consul the same day that he heard of the fate of Golden Eagle, dispatched assistance to the wreck, saw to the interests of the underwriters or shippers, did his best to afford relief. The British Consular Parish has proved himself an active energetic consul in the matter; on behalf of all whom it may concern we thank him.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Mr. Archibald Craig, esmeiero of the Socorro, or Carmen de Arceo, sold his wool on Friday at $100 per arroba.

We believe this is about the highest price yet paid.

The Argentine Plenipotentiary Sr Marmol and suite, arrived safely in Montevideo. It is said he will use his influence on Berro, to bring about peace.

The Municipal elections take place in town, and the 4 to 5 in Belgrano. It is thought there will be more spoil at the elections than at the races.

The news respecting the wool market, is good, in Buenos Ayres, and Havre sales have advanced slightly and are looking upwards.

On Friday the great place of amusement was the Custom House of the Port's and Mr. Maxwell's leading commission. Barla Oriental was distinctly visible to the naked eye, but with the aid of telescope, we are told, it was plainly and distinctly seen riding off at full speed towards Brazil. Medina and Lamas in full chase after her. Flores had a fright that with a broad fin grin on Mr. Ma ina had on of those small Prince of Wales park pic-allais (all round my hat).

The Paysan arrived yesterday, bringing news from the provinces. Cread in a despatch from a place called Paisitos, received by our Buenos Ayres friend Pueblo has escaped unshwards. Rioja and San Juan are now quiet, all the Montonero having fled. Pannes has dissipated all the national troops in the great many of the provinces, on the ground that they are no longer required, the war being over.

The news from Montevideo to day confirms the report respecting Flores' defeat and Medina's victory. Foreigners in Montevideo are of opinion that Brazil is going to step in in support of the lawful government of the country, and put down Flores.

We call attention to a notice in another column from our correspondent, the "Golden Eagle," respecting the inspection of goods.

Our friends, both in town and camp, would do well to pay a visit to Mr. Terence Curran's drapery establishment, No. 75 Calle San Martin, almost in front of the Bolsa. We have seen some fl-ther shirts, and other goods, at Mr. Curran's store, which we had thought were not to be got out of Ireland.

GREAT FIRE in MONTEVIDEO

Last night, at about twelve o'clock, the whole town was aroused to witness one of the greatest, if not the greatest, fire known within the memory of that wonderful individual who never knew anything, viz., the oldest inhabitant in Montevideo. It occurred at the house of Mrs. Villars, opposite the Mandi and English Bank in Calle Cerrito, and in about three hours the house was completely gutted. Nothing remains but the shell, or bare walls, and one store of the Messrs. Wm. Edward Crawford and Co., where goods were saved from the fire of Scylla to be drowned in the arms of Charybdis.

The fire originated in the Italian warehouse of Du. ll. Caudo, a tenant of Mrs. Velasa's, and the flames being fed with cases, candles, tow-rags, and other combustibles, eventually reached a large parcel of Chinese crackers (which were being sent from the Custom House portations of that article have done of late) and thence to the house above, where Sr. Velasa resides generally. Fortunately, last night the family were at their quinta.

Conde estimates his loss at $15, 00, of which only $6, 000 covered by insurance. The Velasas' loss cannot be less than $60,000 to $8,000, not insured.

Of course the police, like your friend Cayen, were on to helpless on the occasion, and had it not been for the engines of the French men-of-war, probably the whole street would have been burnt down. The Gallego vessels also sent men ashore, but they only ran about wildly with little buckets, like their countrymen, the Spanish Colonists of the city, and slid out do much towards putting out that fire with water or burning it as Mr. Peter Piper with fire. John Bull's vessels did nothing, either from want of engines, will, or knowledge that a fire was raging. The Frenchmen worked well, and showed very good instruction in putting out fires. One native soldier lost his life.

FRIDAY.

CAUGHT.

In the brick kiln, corner of Sts. Feand where the enterprising Basque Contractor continues to make money from the surrounding streets to carry on his business, in open rebellion to the Municipality, against whom he has commenced a law-suit for enforcing their right to prevent him from excavating the street, has had one of his labourers severely injured. The unfortunate man on Thursday employed near the Calle Sta. Fe, and early in the morning, between the hours of six and seven, an immense mass fell upon him, breaking one of his legs in two parts and receiving other contusions of the body; when the enterprising Basque not continue his work, the hours of working being numbered, he could not spare men to take this poor fellow to the hospital, where he lay in a state until seven p.m.—twelve hours—until the men left off work. In the meantime the poor fellow was dreadfully swollen and suffered the most excruciating pain.

SCANDALOUS AFFAIR

On Saturday, two English ladies and two gentlemen, called to purchase some jewellery, at a "oyeria," in the Calle Victoria, and after meeting with what they required, they were about to leave the shop, when the shopman, a relative of the owner, an Indian, commenced, in the grossest manner possible, to insult the ladies. The gentlemen must have been rather inebriated or have lost his senses; however, he was taken before the Correctional Judge, the parties requiring him to pay $5,00 in favour of the hospitals.

MANLY SPORTS.

Boredtodeath in this city of Mahs Ayres, I have at last contrived to start up the river, possibly something more will be something new. Although I will have your city slightly disgusted, I by no means coincide with a friend of mine, who has written home to his friends saying that Buenos Ayreans are good looking but uncultivated. On the contrary I have been astonished at the beauty of the daughters of this scorched up land most agreeably disappointed me. I really admit that I did once or twice come with a blush to the conclusion that even the Spanish ladies were handsome men Through the kindness, shall I say it, revenge, of a friend, I was introduced to a social club which boasts everything save what I wanted—a concenial soul. I have tried in vain to enjoy a few moments conversation with some of the members of this exclusive moment. I neither play billiards, drink soda water, nor talk politics; I left the club, threw myself into the corner of a calco, met with sundry strange characters with hair split like a young girls and exquisitely worked shirts; not wishing to misunderstand myself with Spanish, I found these loppish gentlemen rather unsociable—my only relief since I noticed has been smoking, but the long thin cigar even the calmest indulged in a cigar, I gave this upshas.

I am therefore now off on and to escape the stupid dissipation of Montevideo, I start for the Uruguay in order to see this extraordinary man Urquiza, whose name is even known amongst my native hills. I regret to remark that in Buenos Ayres there is a great look of the Finagination, every one seems intent on business, and limits his hilarity and conversation to the "shop." Native gentlemen speak of nothing save politics or trade; native ladies have far more accomplishments however, but then the difficulty about surnames—not a portrait in the city, no, not even my humbly gan pencil—are many. This is very annoying, and I confess I am peculiarly sensitive on the subject. Then again I am passionately fond of manly sports, but find them completely unknown here. I have gone through every boat in the harbour to see if I could find anything decent enough for a man to sit in, but there is not a yacht, not even a row boat in the whole place. Thanks to the spirited, perseverance of a young Englishman, who I am told is only a junior clerk in some house of business, there is a cricket club—what players I know not—but I am told it is confined to seventeen, but for while I found it difficult to persuade myself, at the last game I witnessed, that the cricket ball was not a potato.

The only place where I found real manly exercise, was at the Basque ball alley in the Calle Rivadavia. What a school, at "Gangueunspittogne," I became proficient in ball-playing. I was pleased, therefore, at last, to find out any sport in this effeminate, pleasure playing city; but even my favourite sport ended rather disastrously. There is some facility about my steps—I went to the alley day to day, until all here the 'caucha;' it was very hot, but I did not mind that. I luckily discovered two young gentlemen from the Calle Perpetua, who were always willing to play, so we set-to, these fellows playin with wooden gloves. I exclaimed with tremendous energy "Fair out, whether it was my utter disgust to see these fellows spanning the balls, or my impatience to show them how we played in the Surrey but, by some unlucky accident, I hit one of the poor busques in the head instead of the ball. As soon as he got up, both he and his friend came at me. Getting quickly over my Spanish evaporated, and I could only speak English, whilst my adversaries, exhausting from the same language, uttered some unintelligible jargon. I wanted the fellows to take off the wooden gloves, and stand a fair fight, but the words were lost, and I could not find out. But if these fellows could not understand English, I taught them what were blows. You can easily imagine how the fight ended, only two knocks to one

KERRYMAN.

BRITISH BAZAAR

On the evening of Wednesday the Cover of Solis was thronged by a well dressed crowd of ladies and gentlemen upon the occasion of the opening of the British Bazaar. What the object of the Fair was, or is, seems to be a mystery.

The native papers reported that it was organized for the benefit of the English Hospital, and as this statement was the only one ever offered, no doubt the majority present believed that In stration was to be distributed by the Charity. In the foyer of Solis it was, however, whisp-red that the Fair produced were to be applied towards payment of some debt incurred for an organ or organ-loft in the English Church. On the point "Doctores tiene la Santa Madre Iglesia que sabrin re pondere." All that your correspondent can declare is that the Bazaar has proved a decided success, passing off with great éclat, and producing doubtless golden fruit.

To give at set up of the affair reflects the highest credit upon a committee so small as that formed by the British residents in Montevideo, for the exhibition of fancy work collected for the occasion was, under the circumstances, marvellous. It is said that the genius of the native ladies has been, in the extent and value of their contributions, alone unbounded.

The shop first presented to the visitor on entering was most striking, and where everything was so recherché and shown so advantageously, it would be invidious to praise any one of the four stalls more than another; at the same time it cannot be denied that the chief credit is due to the lady of whom this was considerably marred by the gin-palace transparencies formed by gas and frosted glass, which were quite foreign to the feathetical notions exhibited in the general arrangements of the bazaar.

The four stalls presided over respectively by Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Towers, Mrs. Hughes, and Mrs. Delisle occupied the four sides of the foyer, which were hung with flags of the Nations, and evergreens in graceful festoons.

The centre of the foyer was devoted to a book-stall, where standard and religious literature were dispensed by Mrs. Chaliner and Mrs. Band. There were likewise some good specimens of fancy work in books of English manufacture, which were to be seen to Mimic's subjects; but photography is not favourable towards developing the beauties of pen-and-ink relief painting, so no visitors to need to look over a catalogue, or look at certain de-visito, or device-lines appertaining to the Church of England, but in which no much business was done. Cheques could not be made to go off and bi-shop's remained untouched. Of course all these things were provided with the necessary quantum of bright eyes and spacious tongues, with a view to beguiling the dollars out of the green hands' pockets, and well they did it too.

The confectionary and refreshment department was admirably managed by Mrs. Macmillan, assisted by a staff of young ladies and gentlemen who were very useful as well as ornamental, and it contributed very materially to the general success of the bazaar. Prices were by no means outrageous for a bazaar, and nice little tea-s were to be had in profusion at one shilling and sixpence each.

Considering the heat, the crowd, and the general condition of thirstiness, inseparable from Englishmen, it would not be surprising to find that the refreshment-room had proved as much its more decorous rival, the 'Fairy' itself.

Judging from appearances, at least $200 (-) must have been taken, and it is to be hoped that this sum will answer all purposes for which it may be intended.

THE Insurrection in Poland.

Warsaw, Oct. 16th.—On the 6th inst, a detachment, under the command of major Domiechane, overtook and defeated the Cyrsinsky band, commanded by, Bardzech, in the forest of Chatyn, government of Lublin. The insurgents lost 100 killed, a large number of wounded, and 93 prisoners. The rest of the band was destroyed by a detachment from Gawolin.

Breslau, Oct. 18.—The last number of 'Nieupillegnose' the official organ of the Polish National Government in Warsaw, which has arrived here, contains a circular note of the Nat. Government to its agents abroad relative to the instructions ordered by the former. The note states:—Comparatively few sentences of death have been executed, and those were authorised by the Dictatorship. This exaggeration (the note) is a necessary protective against 'espionage.' All that has been published respecting the executions was an intentional exaggeration of the Russian organs, which the National Government rjects as calumny.

Warsaw, Oct. 19.—The 'Militairische Zeitung' of to day publishes intelligence from Warsaw, stating that all officials of Polish descent in that city are to be dismissed and replaced by Russians. It is further stated that the Russian Government has annulled all annual contracts and reduced them to quarterly engagements. Two national gendarmes have been hanged in Warsaw.

Warsaw, Oct. 18.—This morning the Hotel de Ville was discovered to be on fire in three places simultaneously in the interior of the archive department, the parts of which are supported by interior courts. No doubt is entertained of this fire being the work of incendiaries. All the treasure chests, securities, account books, and valuable objects have been saved.

Berlin, Oct. 19.—Letters received from Posen and Warsaw, dated the 18th inst, state that the Government has ordered civilians to give up all arms and permits for the possession of arms till next July.

Marseilles, Oct. 20.—The Bishop of Nimes has published a mandate, ordering prayers to be offered in favor of Poland for their consecration to Heaven.

Breslau, Oct. 20.—The 'Breslauer Zeitung' of to-day states that the arrest of the Editor of the Gazette of Warsaw were decreed by the late Ukase, which broke out in the tax department of the building, on Sunday, when no officials were present. M. Krukowski, secretary of the Polish Credit Fancier, has been arrested in pursuance of orders from St. Petersburg, and transported to Siberia.

Vienna Oct. 20.—The 'General Correspondenz' says the Polish insurrection is gaining ground. A detachment of Lublin, Pock, and Cracow, is everywhere defeating the confiscation of arms by the Austrian authorities, numerous detachments have been ordered from Gallicia to assist the insurgents; meanwhile the Russians are energetically carrying out their policy of extermination. Besides the system of deportation pursued by the Government, the soldiers commit extortions and plunder on their own account. The Austrian Cabinet acts upon authentic information that great military preparations are being made in Bessarabia.

Lemberg, October 20.—A desperate engagement has taken place in the province of Mlawa. The Russians attacked the insurgents unexpectedly, but after a long and bloody conflict and fight, were driven back. The loss on both sides was very great. The order of battle has produced another victory over the Russians in the Kilin district.

MONTEVIDEO.

It is reported that official despatches have been received from Medina announcing another defeat of Flores. A bulletin is to be issued by the 'La Paz.' If it is not before the sailing of the steamer I will send one. I do not think the affair very extensive, as there is no bell-ringing.

Canaballo is said to be knocked.

We learn by the French mail that Mr. Wheelwright, about the 1st Nov., intended to launch the enterprise, having received every assurance of success from the first men in London.

Thanks to Sir Cusbman Rahiway

The following has brought us the pleasing news that at last all the difficulties which so long beset this company have been settled. We believe the works will be inaugurated without delay. In fact, we think, that the attorneys of the company began the works after the contract was laid before the Government, a great deal of time would have been saved and expense avoided.

Probabilities of War with Russia

Paris, October 21.—"Paris, the correspondent of the 'Morning Post,' after alluding to the course which France has taken on the Polish question, says—"A gentleman who has arrived from St. Petersburg direct, and whose position enables him to estimate the feeling of the Czar and his Government, says that their propositions are most disliked. In their intention not to haig and shoe as many of the upper classes and members of the learned professions as possible. Poland is then to be incorporated in the Russian Empire, and the Polish language prohibited"...

THE PROSPECTS OF THE COUNTRY—EMIGRATION.

Having made minute enquiries in the central districts of the county of Tipperary, and formed an estimate, from my own personal experience, of the existing condition of things, a word or two on the subject may not prove unintere-ting. And first, as regards emigration, it is surprising the extent to which it is and will go on despite the favourable harvest prospects, and the present undisturbed state of affairs. In many places it is difficult to get labourers to cut and bind corn, and the small farmers, inter using the scythe with one hand, have only the aid of their own family to try and secure the crop, and it lies for days in a prostrate state, with the consequent waste for want of hands to bring it into the haggard. In some instances this arises from the positive inability to procure men and women, but more frequently from the inability to pay the increased rate of wages demanded, and were it for the facilities given by improved mechanical agencies even those of the higher ranks of agriculturists would be unable to contend with the present paucity of labour. But still it may reasonably be urged that it is all for the better that there should be such a demand for workers, for they are only engaged fully at the height of the season, and many remain who in winter and in spring drag out a miserable existence. It is the recollection of the latter fact that stimulates and encourages the spirit of emigration, and most remember vividly the misery of the famine years, the sudden gathers of great prosperity that gladdened us in such years as 1857, and the recurring alarm that the three bad years prior to the present hopeful one wakened in the minds of the reflecting. It is positively startling to see the crowds of of steerage going from every district of the country. Every week from Thurles and the other large towns in the county Tipperary, and from that I personally am aware of, this is but the beginning of the end. Speak to the peasantry, and point out the danger attending emigrating in America, and the fury of the war and the probability of an enforced conscription, and they reply that labourers will be wanted the more men are killed, and that they are not likely to be drafted. They seem to be thoroughly conversant with the manifold rules of the land question, and latterly the policy of feeling that made the Irishman reluctant to leave the place where his forefathers lived, and laboured, and died seems also to be very quickly. The letters, and, more than all, the remittances from their friends already, have the most delightful means of stimulating the existing exodus; and such an incident as I am about to mention is told so widely in a county district as to set hundreds upon the thought of going and trying to do likewise. There was a poor labouring boy near Thurles, who scarcely ever ran together by driving an ass and a cart with turf, and the poorest class of a receipt half crown would have been to him an event never to be forgotten. He scraped together, with the assistance of some friends, his passage-money to New York, and sailed on the 17th of March last. Since then he has sent to his father £6, with inquiring £2 for the conveying of the green backs into specie; and the knowledge of this circumstance has done more in the district he resided in than the most elaborate disquisition of a Senior or a Malthers upon the subject of emigration or a political leader. I may be deceived, but still entertain the sincere conviction that even the benefits arising from a fine harvest, and the increase of good supplies, will not equal in effect the rapid tide of industrial power towards distant shores; and certainly they cannot be encountered by the feeble supplies of inert and spiritless humanity, festering and smuldering away in useless inequality in those institutions that must in the spirit of earnest have been designated 'Workhouses!' And now, one word as to the harvest. The late rains have retarded materially the small farmers in securing the grain crops, and much yet remains to be done; but the outs are sooly and productive, the wheat heavy and full, and I have neither seen a diseased potato, nor heard any complaints of them, within an extended circle of the county.—Saunders' Correspondent.

Great and Useful Invention.

No more Mortality for want of Water.

Sure wealth to Estancieros.

By the Robert Apparatus,

Being notorious the immense injury occasioned by the scarcity of water during the long seca that afflicts the camps of Buenaes Ayres, I have determined to dedicate to the Estancieros an Apparatus of once simple and infallible for procuring as much water as they may require.

120 Bordalesas per hour (it seems fabulous) is procured with my apparatus, without fear of at any time its getting out of order.

This machine is worked by one horse, and in one's work can give 1440 Bordalesas that is to say, sufficient water for 20,000 head of cattle.

By these figures can be calculated the immense advantages gained by its use.

Another advantage is the facility of carriage for many and taking it in pieces, so as to be able to transport it to any place where it may be necessary to use it, either for watering purposes or others.

GREAT MODIFICATION.

I have made an improvement in my Apparatus, applying a new system which reduces the necessary force two horse, giving it at the same time more rapidity.

I have interested con sec it at Calle Moreno, No. 436 (Honerrado, Paris).

One solo inspection of the Apparatus will prove to them the superiority of i ts work over every other.

The great thing time seing at hand, the Inventor of the Anti-Scab Specific for curing Cutaneous Diseases in Sheep, of all denominations, begs to inform the Estancieros that the same never applied to such effect as after shearing, when it not only cures the worst cases, but acts as a preservative against no disease.

The simplest method is bathing the animal, whether sound or affected, in the manner prescribed by the instructions.

The Specific has been already found the effectual remedy for Insects (Garrapatas).

Numerous certificates may be seen, showing the nigh regret at the specific throughout the Republic, in low prices in within the reach of all, 20th. offering for 800 or 1000 Sheep. It contains no poisonous quality, and is sold at the above Depots.

ENGLISH GRAMMAR SCHOOL,

CALLE LARGA DE BARRACAS

Dirs—Mr. Pepperrell, of the London University College.

This Establishment, which from its foundation has been patronised by the principal British families of Buenos Ayres, is at present reproduced on an E glish school where a sound commercial education combined with the acquisition of the French and Spanish languages is imparted to the pupils, and based upon the same system as in all first class European institutions of the kind.

An over-watchful and constant supervision, and a strict moral observance of order and propriety, are a sufficient guarantee that the mutual behaviour of the pupils are carefully attended to.

The different branches taught in the English Grammar School comprise the English, French and Spanish languages History, Geography, Arithmetic, and Book-keeping in all its parts, Writing, and Real globe instruction.

Extra branches, such as Latin, Mathematics, Geometry, Music and Drawing are also taught by competent masters.

The situation of the English Grammar School, in one of the most retiring Quarters of the Calle Larga de Barracas, is the very gates of the city, is one of the most healthful and picturesque of the environs of Buenos Ayres.

For further particulars apply for prospectuses at the Standard Office, Calle Belgrano 71.
